Important Information & Disclaimer

The services of this application are there to help you creating an awareness of your skin health, to monitor and track irregularities and to create an initial assessment. Our services are therefore providing help in understanding what to look for, but cannot be used solely for diagnostic or treatment purposes. This service does not replace a visit to the doctor. Any reliance on our service and our recommendations is always at your own risk. This service should always only be used as an extension to a doctor visit. It is strongly recommended that you discuss your personal risk factors and the results of your review with your doctor. Our application cannot be made liable if you do not discuss your skin health with your doctor. Our App does not guarantee the correct assessment based on our data sets or programmatic libraries integrated in the app. we make it clear that we did not procure the data sets ourselves, but instead refer to scientific data sets that are openly accessible on the internet when evaluating the skin.
